PRESENTATION

Description: IIRR students need to be introduced into the inner layer of certain international actors because a systemic view of international relations remains too broad of an analysis. Since the EU wields the might of 27 European States, an introduction to it is compulsory.

When opening the EU and looking into its inside, we will find that its institutional machinery is one of the most sophisticated the World knows of. The particular history of the European continent combined with the ambition of the goals to be achieved has required such a degree of creativity that in the EU the traditional concepts that structure power (e.g. Democracy, Sovereignty) have been pushed to their limits. All this is done through public law. Whatever are the changes to come, they will also be introduced through public law.

In this class, we will learn how the EU is legally shaped. The goal is that students understand its architecture and basic functioning modes.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

The goals we aim at are:

- That students know the history, nature, and institutions of the EU.
- That students understand the main concepts building the institutional complex of the EU.
- That students grasp that the EU as a political project is founded upon and developed using the law. Students will be provided the tools to link EU political activity with the legal instruments framing them.

The learning method includes:

- Student's personal and constant study: students will only succeed if they read and study materials personally, thoughtfully, and timely.
- Lectures: in the lectures the teacher will expose and analyze the main contents.
- Discussion sessions: during these the same content of the lectures will be approached but from an angle that connects it with close-to-real exemplifications of the institutional-political life of the EU.

ASSESSMENT

ORDINARY

Student performance assessment is based on the following items:

- mid-term exam (30% of the final grade)
- final exam (50% of the final grade)
- class participation (20% of the final grade)

Mid-term exam: one mid-term will be sat. Students scoring 5.0 or higher will be exempted from the mid-term content in the final exam. Date, time and classroom will be announced.

Final Exam: it will be oral and will be voice-recorded. Two to four concise questions will be asked.

Class participation: During the semester notes on the quality of student participation and attendance will be taken. Contributions to class will be graded between 0 and 2; grades may be expressed with decimals.

Universidad de Navarra

Important: both of the next two conditions need to be met in order to pass the course: at least a score of 5/10 should be achieved in the final exam, and at least a score of 5/10 should be achieved in the global grade.

EXTRAORDINARY

Student performance is assessed based on the oral exam, which is worth 100% of the grade.

In order to pass, students must achieve a global score of, at least, 5 out of 10.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Both a textbook and the notes that the professor provides will be used as study material. Students need, therefore, both resources.

The textbook is the last edition (fourth, 2023) of Robert Schütze's Introduction to European Law, published by Oxford University Press, available in our library. The complete version of this text is in Robert Schütze's EU Law.
