OBJETIVOS y COMPETENCIAS

Objectives

The EU is a key player in international relations, but remains a paradox in many respects. Since the creation of the European Economic Community (currently, the European Union) the cooperation and adoption of common criteria between the Commission and the Member States has played an important role in economic and monetary policy, but a peripheral one regarding tax policy. In this respect, the lack of consensus on taxation has been evident for decades.

The course aims primarily to provide an entry point into the study of the EU Tax law. The course is divided into two parts (eight sessions). After an introduction of the source of EU Tax Law and the nature of the EU law system, across the first part we will analyze the EU freedoms (freedom of establishment, freedom of movement of legal persons and individuals, freedom to provide /acquire services and freedoms of movement of capital) and the ECJ Cases with regard the infringement of these freedoms. The second part examines the EU Direct tax Directives that affects most of the cross border relations between companies located in different member states, as well as the impact of unlawful aid in fiscal cases according with the state aid regulation.
