Module 2: Organization

The culture of the company, how they approach the creation of value, and how they attract talent through an Employee Value Proposition. In this module we will explain how Human Resources facilitate the company vision and mission through the different experiences and tools offered to the company community.

Module 3: Self

The relation of talent and organization has completely change, and research anticipates that the change will be even deeper in the coming years. The employees decide their journey, the companies they work for, and the time they are bounded to a project or vision. Understanding the drivers and the levers that mobilize talent is the purpose of this third module.

ACTIVIDADES FORMATIVAS

The methodology combines different teaching methodologies, such as practical case studies, group-based activities and oral presentations.
