

Human Resources Management A

Subject guide 2026-27

PRESENTATION

The management and leadership of people and work teams are essential aspects for today's organizations in a globalized, technological and changing context. This course aims to be a first approach in the work of managing people in organizations, since in one way or another every professional develops his activity surrounded by people: bosses, colleagues, subordinates, customers, suppliers.

On the one hand, we will study in depth the theoretical foundations that will help us understand what organizations are and how human relations are structured in them, and on the other hand, we will apply this knowledge live and direct through the case method and real simulations.

EVALUATION

ORDINARY CALL

Of the total grade, 70% corresponds to the practical component and 30% to the theoretical component. For each part to count toward the final grade, at least half of the marks in each of the two sections must be achieved.

Practical component (70%)

- Individual assignments (40%)
- Group assignments (30%)

Theoretical component (30%)

- Final Exam (30%)

EXTRAORDINARY CALL

- The extraordinary exam typically follows a similar structure as the standard exam.

If the practical component has been passed, and the student wishes, the practical grade from the ordinary examination session will be retained, and the extraordinary examination will account for 30% of the final grade. The student must pass the exam in order to pass the course.

Universidad de Navarra

If the practical component has not been passed, or if the student prefers, the extraordinary examination will account for 100% of the final grade.

Students with special educational needs must contact the Academic Coordination Office of the faculty/school in advance to obtain authorization for the corresponding accommodations (for example, additional time during exams). This authorization must be sent by the student to the lecturer. It is recommended that this process be completed at the beginning of the semester.

In general, this course adheres to the general rules and guidelines established by the faculty / university.
