- Aula, Horario: Seminario 22 (Edificio Amigos). Viernes de 10:00 a 12:00

Introductory course on international relations divided into two sections. Section one examines the history of IR and the main theories pertaining to this subject. Namely, idealism and realism. Besides these two, international liberalism will also be studied in detail, as well as the international liberal order. Section two goes through a number of more practical elements, as it reviews the main actors and dynamics, both historically and today, as well as some applications and projections on this field. These two sections will also include practical exercises that will be later translated into an essay.
