International trading and logistics (IIMP)

Guía docente 2025-26

PRESENTACIÓN

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PREREQUISITE

No proof of language proficiency is required at the time of application, however you must ensure that you have a sufficient level to attend the classes and to be able to study in this language should you be admitted.

The initial matriculation into the program is not final until the interview has taken place in September.

The candidates invited to the final stage of the admission process in September, will be tested during an interview on their language proficiency. Should the level be insufficient (i.e. below the linguistic prerequisites), the interview panel reserves the right to retract the initial acceptance into the program.

Companies that are selling in different countries, have to design and manage a higher complexity when purchasing, producing and distributing their products or services. This course will allow the assistants to understand the difficulties that companies need to face when starting up and developing new markets from an operations point of view, and the alternatives that could be applied for the operations global network, and product new launching and order fulfillment processes.

For the global operations network design, GLOBOPE (Global Operations) framework will be presented focusing on three main topics:

- New production site starting up in a foreign country.
- Global Supplier network development.
- International production multisite configuration and management

For operations process management, GLOBOPE (Global Operations) framework will be presented focusing on how to handle:

- New product launching and order fulfillment- XPS systems

For the course, individual attitudes, behaviors and skills to develop in order to work with people of different cultures, countries, beliefs and professional skills will be presented.

ACTIVIDADES FORMATIVAS

The course will include trends and theory of internationalization of productive and logistic operations in international trade environments, through the presentation of papers and company cases.

During the sessions, the lecturers will include case studies of national and international companies of different industrial sectors and services.

The goal of these cases is looking for debate and group work.

These short cases will be presented by the lecturer, and the associated theory, as well as the case questions, they will be previously developed by the students in groups to be discussed in class.

*Note: In order to make a better use of the course, lecturers will recommend a previous reading/preparation of papers and book chapters.
