

PRESENTACIÓN

Breve descripción: This course is intended as an introduction to the field of international organizations and their role in the international sphere, as well as their importance for the domestic policy process. Its purpose is to give you both a sense of the general theoretical concepts used in the field, and how they apply to a group of international organizations that can be deemed as highly relevant in their respective areas. To that end, it will cover a scope of these organizations in some detail, ranging from truly "global" organizations like the United Nations, the World Trade Organization, and the World Bank to more "regional" organizations like NATO, USMCA, or Mercosur. In that context, the course will also treat the potential emerging conflict between globalism and regionalism in international organizations.

Universidad de Navarra

- Presentation and other class activities. 40%
- Final exam. 60%

Grading activities

- Theoretical lectures are imparted and compulsory!
- Presentations are to be given in groups of several students on a specific international organization, which is assigned by the teacher at random. Presentations should employ the analytical tools covered in class. Presentations will be 30 to 40 minutes each, followed by 5 to 10 minutes of questions from the teacher, a 15 minute round-off discussion in class, and a wrap up lecture by the teacher. Presentations must be handed-in via email to the teacher on the day of your presentation. The ethical standards of a scientific working style apply, and the use of AI in the creation of content must be duly acknowledged.
- The final exam will be based on the lectures, class discussions, and texts. All texts (and presentations) will be made available on ADI.
- Contributions in class are compulsory. Students are expected to actively participate in the lectures and debates.

Presentation dates: Consult individual presentation groups.
